HOW TO BE A STORMWATER HERO

What is Stormwater?

Stormwater is rain, snow melt, or irrigation water that flows across impervious surfaces and eventually reaches our waterways. Stormwater is not treated before being released into the environment. That's why it's so important to make sure that we keep stormwater clean of pollutants – to protect our health and the environment.

How can you prevent stormwater pollution in your home and garden?

Stormwater runoff is susceptible to picking up all sorts of pollutants on its way to the ocean or local bodies of water. Common stormwater pollutants include trash, pet waste, motor oil, pesticides, and other chemicals. These pollutants pose a serious health risk to people swimming or fishing in our water bodies as well as to wildlife.

Here are some tips on how we can all do our part to prevent stormwater pollution:

- Dispose of trash in the proper bins, and make sure your trash bin lids are secure.
- Always pick up after your pet. Order a free doggie bag canister here: <https://sbcountystormwater.org/residents/dog-owners/> so you never find yourself without a poop bag.
- Reduce the use of pesticides and fertilizers in your garden. Find tips for less-toxic alternatives here: <https://sbcountystormwater.org/residents/gardeners/>
- Always dispose of Household Hazardous Waste (such as paint, household cleaners, motor oil, etc.) at HHW collection centers. Find your nearest HHW collection center here: <https://sbcountystormwater.org/residents/toxic-items/household-hazardous-waste-collection-locations/>

Capturing and Conserving Stormwater

Stormwater is also a valuable resource. Especially as drought becomes more common, capturing and conserving rainwater can help reduce our reliance on potable water. Here are some tips for making the most of the scarce but free rainwater that falls on our gardens:

- Apply mulch and compost to your garden. This will create nutritious soil and help your soil capture and retain water.
- Install a rain barrel or rain cistern to capture rainwater and save it to use in drier months. You may even qualify for a rebate to subsidize the cost of your water capture system. Check with your local water agency to find what rebates are available to you.
- Check out free gardening webinars, classes, and resources offered by the UCCE Master Gardeners of San Bernardino County. <https://mgsb.ucanr.edu/>

Tips for A Safe and Healthy Summertime

Whether you are planning an overseas vacation, getting ready for a staycation, or will be working outdoors, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's latest health tips provides practical advice for everyone who wants to beat the summer heat.

Travel abroad safely - Before traveling abroad, check out health and safety risks at your destination. Animal illnesses and drinking water might be very different from what you are used to and could make you sick. Get needed vaccinations at least 4 to 6 weeks before you leave to ensure you are protected by the time you travel.

Beat the heat and rays - Heat kills more than 600 people in the United States each year. Preventing heat-related illnesses, including heat stroke and heat exhaustion, is important for people of all ages, but extreme heat poses the greatest risk for people under age 4 and over 65, and anyone who has a pre-existing medical condition or who lives in a home without air conditioning. The best ways to protect yourself from heat include staying cool, hydrated, and informed: find air-conditioning during hot hours and wear cool clothing, drink plenty of liquids, and pay attention to heat advisories.

Sunburn is a common summertime injury. Unprotected skin can be burned by the sun's UV rays in as little as 15 minutes but can take up to 12 hours for the skin to show the damage. CDC recommends staying out of the sun between 10a.m. and 4p.m., when its UV rays are at their highest level. Sunscreen is recommended for anyone working and playing outside in the summer, even on cloudy days. Hats, sunglasses, and long sleeves are also recommended for outdoors activities.

Children's health and safety - Summer activities, such as riding a bike and playground time, are great for a child's development. To keep kids healthy and safe all summer long, be sure children use helmets that fit well while riding their bikes and follow playground safety tips from CDC's website. Parents should ensure children stay safe while traveling in cars. Children should be properly buckled in a car seat, booster seat, or seat belt —whichever is appropriate for their weight, height, and age — on every trip. Properly buckling reduces serious and fatal injuries by up to 80 percent. Children under age 13 are best protected in the back seat.

Food safety - Food poisoning peaks during summer months due to warmer temperatures, which can let foodborne germs thrive. Each year, 1 in 6 Americans get sick from eating contaminated food.
